Our agency is about to commence with alcohol compliance checks to all liquor establishments within our jurisdiction. We would like to provide an opportunity to your Criminal Justice students to participate in these compliance checks. A compliance check is a proactive enforcement approach to the problem of liquor sale-to-minor violations. A person under the age of 21 years (minor, underage purchaser) is enlisted to attempt to purchase alcoholic beverages from a liquor licensee. A compliance check provides an investigative avenue for the detection and deterrence of liquor sales to underage persons. Such checks may be used:

- When a complaint has been lodged that a licensee is selling to persons under age 21 years.
- On a random basis, to ascertain levels of compliance among licensees and to deter sales to minors generally.

The underage purchaser:

- Should be within the range of 18 and 20 years of age, with age appropriate appearance and no age enhancements.
- May have no criminal history or pending criminal charges, with the exception of non-alcohol related traffic offenses or petty offenses.
- Will have a photograph taken on the date of operation. The photo will be held as evidence.
- Must be willing and able to testify.
- Will be advised of and agree to all procedures prior to the attempt to purchase.
- Will be asked if he/she has purchased or been served alcohol in the target establishment in the past.

Identification:

- The underage purchaser may carry and use his/her own, valid identification.
- Carry no identification, and respond, if asked, with a reasonable excuse such as "I lost it," or "I forgot it."
- It will be the responsibility of the law enforcement entity involved to assure that the underage purchaser has no other identification on his/her person prior to the operation.
- All money in the possession of the purchaser will be provided to the agency.

These are the guidelines that the students will be required to adhere to during the operation. We look forward to working with some of your students and hope to provide some valuable experience to them as well. All volunteers will also be required to carry an audio device upon their person and will be closely monitored by several police officers during the commencement of the operation to ensure their safety. We certainly would like to have several male and female volunteers. This operation will take place over several weeks and at different times and days of the weeks.

We look forward to hearing back from you.

Thank you in advance.
